

About Us!

The Pacific NW Truck Museum, located in Brooks, Oregon, USA, is a non-profit Organization dedicated to preserving trucking history. A group of corporate executives and truck drivers founded the Museum in October of 1989. This mix of talent provided us with the skills to preserve and present all aspects of trucking history; including trucks, trucking artifacts, the history of trucking companies, component manufacturers, and biographies of the people who made it all happen. We are an all-volunteer organization funded entirely by membership dues, corporate and individual donations.

We invite you to become a member of the Pacific NW Truck Museum. Membership is open to all people interested in trucking history regardless of where they live or whether or not they own a truck. As a member, you receive our newsletter keeping you informed of activities at the Museum and the satisfaction you are supporting one of the largest trucking museums in the world.
